Chanticleer

An orchestra of voices! Civic Music opens its new season with a Grammy Award-winning group described as “America’s Favorite Choral Ensemble” by The New Yorker. From its hometown of San Francisco to the great cathedrals of Europe, from New York City concert halls to NPR and “Prairie Home Companion,” Chanticleer enchants audiences with luxurious harmony, crisp clarity and a diverse repertoire including Renaissance, jazz, gospel, Mexican baroque, folk and adventurous new music.

International Chamber Soloists

World-class strings! Spend an evening with internationally acclaimed violinist Dmitri Berlinsky and friends, a classic chamber orchestra that also celebrates the individual virtuosity of its members. Berlinsky has been an in-demand soloist since his debut as the youngest winner ever of the Paganini International Violin Competition in Genoa, Italy. Touring today with extraordinary young soloists from Eastern Europe, the Pacific Rim, South America and the United States, he promises elegant ensemble playing, impeccable technique and electrifying live performance of classical favorites.

New Century Saxophone Quartet

Classical sax! They have been heard in major concert halls, on NPR and even at the White House in command performances for sax-loving former president Bill Clinton. Winning new fans for the serious saxophone quartet, New Century plays music from Baroque to innovative contemporary to imaginative transcriptions. "Polish and vitality distinguish this group," writes the Los Angeles Times. "Tackling new territory in the conservative-leaning realm of classical music tradition takes a unique blend of conviction, refined talent and damn-the-torpedoes ambition... They made believers here."

Organist Paul Jacobs

A marriage made in music heaven! Paul Jacobs, America's most celebrated concert organist, is the only organ soloist ever to receive a Grammy Award (2011). His phenomenal technique and charismatic stage presence dazzle audiences and critics alike. ("A brilliant organist...impressive clarity...rollicking energy," raves the New York Times.) Paired with the Weidner Center's superb acoustics and spectacular Wood Family Organ — three manuals, 44 stops and 68 ranks of 3,702 pipes — he promises a delightful reprise of his 2008 concert, which yielded three standing ovations and one of the most memorable evenings in the 87-year history of the Civic Music series.

Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra

It's tradition! For the seventh consecutive season, we close with the majestic power and superb musicianship of one of America's preeminent orchestras. From delicate solo passages to bold sweeping crescendos, the 85 full-time professional musicians of the MSO demonstrate anew there's nothing quite like an evening of live classical music. Maestro Edo de Waart and the MSO are earning strong reviews; critics and industry professionals raved about last year's Carnegie Hall festival appearance.

A season of world-class favorites!

The Brown County Civic Music Association invites you to experience the electricity of live classical performance the way you like it — fresh, face-to-face and affordable. Our series of five concerts annually offers a rich blend of established stars and rising talent, with return appearances by audience favorites and first-time visits by promising newcomers. (It's been a formula for success ever since the organization's first season, in 1927.)

With grass-roots volunteers, our members see and hear full value in the music as performed at the historic, acoustically superb Ralph Holter Auditorium. Our five-star, five-concert subscription series remains an incredible bargain. For the eighth consecutive year, our full season subscription is only $80 (adult) and $25 (student)! Won't you join us?
